GOGO READING BOOK

(NATIVE PROVERBS, RIDDLES, AND FABLES)

SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING CHRISTIAN KNOWLEDGE

LONDON: NORTHUMBERLAND AVENUE, W.C.

1901

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

THE hope that it would be useful to the missionary philologically, as well as for practical school work in our stations, suggested to me the production of some such little book as this.

It seemed probable that a book wholly native, both in matter and diction, would contain more of the idioms and peculiarities of the language than could be found in a translation, and also that the European element in it would be almost nil.

These selections of Gogo Folk-lore, etc., may also prove more attractive, as a reading book, to the native scholar than pages more pretentious but confined to subjects altogether foreign to him, and in which European influence necessarily manifests itself in the language.

If the hope expressed above be realized, we shall owe a debt of gratitude to our native teachers at Mpwapwa, Andereya and Nhonya, who, without assistance or supervision, have collected and written out the whole of this—the first all-native book in Gogo.

The only part I have taken in the work has been to decipher the original manuscript (not always an easy proceeding), to re-write the whole, punctuate, and see through the press.
